

Assistant, Associate or Professor
Full-Time Limited-Term Appointment
And Learning Director for the Centre for Research and Education on Violence Against Women and Children

The Faculty of Education, Applied Psychology Academic Research Cluster at Western University invites application for an externally-funded full-time Limited-Term faculty position at the rank of Assistant, Associate or Professor and Learning Director of the Centre for Research and Education on Violence Against Women and Children (CREVAWC). Established in 1992 as part of a response to the 1989 murder of 14 women at École Polytechnique in Montreal, CREVAWC is committed to the development and application of knowledge for the prevention of violence against women and children through promoting innovation, collaboration and equality. Rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The effective date of the appointment may be as early as January 1, 2023 for a 5-year term with a possibility for renewal.

The Learning Director of CREVAWC will be responsible for overseeing CREVAWC's work to disseminate knowledge about gender-based violence. They will be responsible for leading three current grants: the Learning Network www.vawlearningnetwork.ca, the Knowledge Hub <http://kh-cdc.ca/en/home.html>, and Neighbours, Friends and Families <https://www.neighboursfriendsandfamilies.ca/>. Responsibilities include: maintaining and enhancing relationships with provincial and national stakeholders, supervising project teams, managing project budgets and ensuring success in meeting each project's deliverables. The Learning Director will also maintain an active research program, ideally focused on ways to more effectively disseminate knowledge on gender-based violence.

The successful candidate will be asked to actively participate on the Executive Committee for CREVAWC charged with the responsibility of overseeing the Centre and contributing to its provincial, national, and international reputation. They will also contribute to the intellectual and professional life of the Faculty, Western University, and the surrounding community through general service and preventive, developmental, and outreach orientations.

The successful candidate will have a completed PhD in a field relevant to gender-based violence and will have experience providing direct service in and/or being part of the leadership team of a community-based organization serving women and families and/or addressing gender-based violence. Preference will be given to candidates with a Bachelor of Education or professional qualifications in teacher education. Skills in knowledge translation and experience in integrating and presenting the findings of primary research for a variety of audiences through live events, written resources, and videos is required. A key concern for knowledge mobilization in gender-based violence is effectively researching and engaging with equity-seeking populations. The successful candidate will have experience developing and maintaining relationships with equity-seeking communities and will be able to clearly articulate plans for continuing to develop such relationships. The successful candidate may also have opportunities to teach at the Bachelor of Education or graduate education level, supervise graduate students and participate in community service within and beyond the Faculty of Education.
